THE COUNTRY SCHOOL'S YEAR

The country town and the city have this in common, that at about the same date in early fall the young folks resume their study. The country school does not commonly have the facilities of the big city schoolhouse. The majority of the country schools are small affairs, without the enthusiasm that goes with big numbers and without the help of fine equipment.

But they usually have one thing that city schools lack, and that is a group of children that have been trained to work and are ambitious to learn. This makes a tremendous difference in the atmosphere and achievement of a school. When those youngsters finish their courses they have usually made the best of their opportunities, which is not always the case in fine and elaborate city educational planes.

BE WHAT YOU IS

Don't be what you ain't,
Jes' be what you is.
If you is not what you am,
Then you am not what you is.
If you're just a little tadpole,
Don't try to be a frog.
If you're just the tail
Don't try to wag the dog.
You can always pass the plate,
If you can't exhort and preach.
If you're just a little pebble,
Don't try to be the beach.
Don't be what you ain't
Jus' be what you is,
For the man who plays it square
Is a-goin' to get "his."

RHEUMATISM AND DYSPEPSIA ARE SOON ENDED

Victims of stomach trouble and rheumatism often find that when their stomach is set in order, the rheumatism disappears. Thousands of people everywhere have testified that Tanlac has freed them of both troubles simultaneously. Mrs. Mary Barnhardt, 537 Jervis street, Toledo, Ohio, says:

"For ten years I had suffered from stomach trouble and rheumatism. For the past year I could barely get around. I started taking Tanlac and to-day I am a well woman. Everything I eat agrees with me perfectly and the rheumatism has left me entirely."

Badly digested food fills the whole system with poisons. Rheumatism and many other complaints not generally recognized as having their origin in the stomach quickly respond to the right treatment. Get a bottle of Tanlac to-day at any good druggist. (adv)

THE RAILROADS STRIKE AND ITS LESSONS

It is generally considered by the press that the railroad shopmen's strike is practically at an end. It is the further belief of most of the papers that the strike, that while it has caused the railroads untold inconvenience and necessitated the expenditure by them of vast sums of money, the strikers are really the losers in the unfortunate struggle.

Morals are being drawn and explanations without end are being made. The New York World thinks the strike was lost to the shopmen before two weeks had passed. Their union leaders, it says, knew by that time that the strike had been lost, and that they had blundered badly in ever having sanctioned it.

"It can be no secret to them (the shopmen) now," says the World, "why their strike failed. It was begun as a first resort when it should have been held in reserve as a last resort. It was directed against a decision of the United States Labor Board, which had been publicly constituted in the fullest recognition of labor unionism and its integrity ever accorded by the public authority in this country. Its worst consequences were necessarily to fall upon this same public, whose sympathy would have been won over if the power of its opinion were to weigh for the strikers. But instead of appealing to the public reason, instead of asking for a review of the Labor Board's decision, a strike was sprung to overcome the decision by force of public suffering. This is primarily why the strike failed. American public opinion cannot be coerced in so cavalier a manner. It was thus lost to the strikers from the start, and when that is true any strike is a failure from the start."

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation. (adv-T)

TRUTH MIXED WITH POETRY

(Indianapolis News)

A Muncie lawyer was making his first church speech. It was a welcome to the new minister and in it he was telling of the beauties of his home town. He spoke of the streets, the residences and then he began on the trees. "I have one great tree in my yard," he said, "that means more to me than any other in town. Whenever I pass it I think of how often I have reached into its boughs to pluck the spring blossoms."

And then came an interruption. His 8-year-old son who had been paying attention to father's speech spoke up. "Don't forget the caterpillars, too, father," he said. "We have to burn 'em about that time, too."

The Rattlesnake.

One of Bossworth's young sprouts was coming home about twelve o'clock the other night on the south road, and just as he got even with the graveyard the engine went dead. But he said he got so scared when he saw where he was that he shook the car so badly the durned old thing thought the motor was running, and came clear to town before it discovered its mistake. —Science and Invention Magazine.

Home.

"There's no place like home, thank heaven," sighed the hen-pecked man, as he locked his hotel room from the inside. —Farm Life.

COURT OF APPEALS AGAIN IN SESSION

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has opened its fall term with one of the heaviest dockets in its history. The Court has a number of cases that will go down in history.

The Court also will have to pass again upon certain phases of the decision in the cases of Shipp vs. Rhodes, etc., and Shipp vs. Bradley, etc., from Fayette county, in which the Court, at its spring term, held that officials paid by fees were limited by the constitution to a salary of $5,000 a year. The defendants in these cases have filed notice of intention to file a petition for rehearing.

FAME'S FADING FLAME

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

It must be admitted, however reluctantly, that the late Mr. Jesse James, one of the headlines in the Missouri Who's Who of yesteryear, seems to be slipping. Pilgrims no longer plod to the humble St. Joe cottage where he got his start into the next world, with his boots on.

For a long time the spot where Bob Ford ended the career of the prominent Missourian was a shrine for swarms of the faithful who venerated the memory of that noble knight of the road who was never too busy to rob a bank or shoot a superfluous citizen. Caretakers garnered honest fees for showing visitors through and depleted the lumber supply sellings of the chair upon which the illustrious J. James stood when the equally illustrious B. Ford plugged him.

Now all is changed. The house is falling into decay and the visitors are few and far between and the stock of chair rounds needs no replenishment and the surplus may yet serve a useful purpose as fuel for an honest kitchen fire.

It might be thought that the Buchanan County Historical Society would be distressed about this, but not so. The society has resolved that no particular benefit can inure to the city or State from the preservation of the habitation. It is a sound resolution.

Horrid Thing!

"We had a splendid time in the country," said Mrs. Newrich, "and my husband has turned out to be a good shot. The men went out one day to do some shooting, and my husband got what they call a bull. And some mean old farmer made him pay for it." —Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Her Faithful Friend

We welcome the accounts of women and urge every husband to start a bank account for his WIFE. Many a man has been saved from financial disaster because his economical wife had tucked away money and had it on hand for a time of urgent need.
